

10 reasons your team should Absolutely clock in on a dedicated kiosk instead of the POS

1 - Better till security

Back-of-house and floor staff should not need POS access just to clock in.

2 - Stops buddy punching

POS systems don't support facial detection or photo capture. Anyone can clock in for anyone else.

3 - Faster clock in

POS is for sales. Clocking in on the POS creates queues and slows service at busy times.

4 - Clock in at the right place

Tablets can be mounted near staff entrances or changing rooms, POS terminals are usually fixed at service points.

5 - Built for time tracking

TimeStation is purpose-built to reduce missed punches, wrong logins, lateness and early finishes.

6 - Fewer missed clock-ins

Waiting for a free POS leads to late or forgotten clock-ins and payroll issues.

7 - Easier for staff

Clocking in on a tablet is faster and clearer for staff, and new team members can clock in from day one without needing any POS training.

8 - POS hardware is expensive to tie up

POS terminals cost far more than tablets. Using them for clocking in is an inefficient use of high-value hardware.

9 - Clear separation of duties

Sales stay on the POS. Time tracking stays on TimeStation. Cleaner payroll and audits.

10 - More features than your POS

Real-time visibility of who is in or late, schedule and payroll integration, mobile access for managers, multi-site support, and even birthday reminders.

Summary

Labour is your biggest and most variable cost. Small overruns quickly destroy margins. The cost you need to control most closely should never be an afterthought. Time and attendance deserves a dedicated solution, and that is exactly what the Bizimply TimeStation is built for.
